New online parenting program

Behaviour Skills Builder recruiting participants

At the Parenting Research Centre we are dedicated to seeking and sharing scientific knowledge about parenting. We believe that effective parenting is crucial for children's health and wellbeing, and that as a society we need to work with and support parents to ensure better outcomes for children.

We are seeking your support to help us promote participation in the trial of an online program called the Behaviour Skills Builder, designed to help parents and carers gain a better understanding of why difficult behaviour occurs and tailor a plan specifically to suit their child.

The types of participants we need for this online program include:

- Parents and carers who are finding their child's behaviour difficult to manage.
- Parents & carers of children with special needs such as a developmental delay or intellectual disability.
- Parents and carers of children aged between 3 and 9 and who live in Australia.

To find out more email or freecall 1800 334 155 to speak to the team or download the flyer.
